

Stars and Galaxies

Rules for Submission

April 5, 2019

1 Contents

The journal is aimed at professional astronomers as well as teachers to be Authors and readers. It aims to publish and disseminate articles that contribute to basic research in astronomy and its popularization and development. The submitted manuscript should report on original astronomical research. There is no restriction on the length of the article.

2 Authors

Those who are deemed appropriate by the editorial committee.

3 Manuscript Submission

- a In principle, submissions should be created electronically.
- b Send the manuscript to the editorial committee (sag@nhao.jp).
- c The editorial committee will notify the authors when the manuscript has been received.

4 Review and subsequent handling

- a After the manuscript has been received by the editorial committee, a reviewer is selected and asked for review.
- b After the review, the editorial committee will decide on publication of the manuscript, referring to the opinion of the reviewer. At that time, the editorial board might ask the author for corrections.
- c The author will be notified immediately as soon as the publication of the manuscript has been decided
- d The final draft, requested by the editorial committee is required to be in the TeX-format, which should be sent to the editorial committee via email etc.

5 Proofreading

Proofreading is at the responsibility of the author. Also, as a rule, proofreading is limited to corrections of typographical errors.

6 Reprint

Reprints are not provided.

7 Copyright

The copyright of the posted article shall be transferred from the author to the Center of Astronomy, University of Hyogo from the time of the publication in this journal.

8 Code of Ethics

All articles published in this journal must be submitted with a letter of intent at the time of manuscript submission and should comply with the "Code of Ethics for Manuscript Publication". If it is found that the requirements are not met, the actions described in each section of the "Code of Ethics for Manuscript Publication" will be taken, such as withdrawal of the manuscript.

9 Submission and publishing fee

In general, there are no fees for submitting and publishing.